- (a) the consumer;
- (b) the supplier; or
- (c) any other person who has suffered loss.

(3) An order under this section may--

- (a) vest in any party to the proceedings the whole or any part of any real or personal property that was the subject of the contract or was the whole or part of the consideration for it;
- (b) direct any party to the proceedings to transfer or assign to any other such party or to give him the possession of the whole or any part of any real or personal property that was the subject of the contract or was the whole or part of the consideration for it;

(4) An order under subsection (1) or any provision of it, may be made on and subject to such terms and conditions as the court thinks fit, not being a term or condition that would have the effect of preventing a claim for damages by any party.

(5) In considering whether to make an order under this section, and in considering the terms and conditions it proposes to impose, the court shall have regard to the following:

- (a) any benefit or advantage obtained by the consumer by reason of anything done by the supplier in or for the purpose of supplying the services;

(6) No order under paragraph (3)(a) shall be made if it would have the effect of depriving a person, not being a party to the contract, of the possession of, or any estate or interest in, any property acquired by him in good faith and for valuable consideration.

(7) No order shall be made under this section in respect of any property if any party to the contract has so altered his position in relation to the property, whether before or after the cancellation of the contract, that having regard to all the relevant circumstances, it would, in the opinion of the court, be inequitable to any party to make such an order.

67. Meaning of "defect"

(1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), there is a defect in a product for the purposes of this Part if the safety of the product is not such as a person is generally entitled to expect.

(3) Nothing in this section shall require a defect to be inferred from the mere fact that the safety of a product which is subsequently supplied is greater than the safety of the product in question.

(4) For the purposes of this section, "safety", in relation to a product, shall include--

- (a) safety with respect to products comprised therein;
- (b) safety in the context of risk of damage to property; and

(2) Where damage is caused wholly or partly by a defect in a product, the person who suffered the damage may within a reasonable period after the damage occurs request the supplier to identify any or all of the persons referred to in subsection (1), whether or not he is or they are still in existence.

(3) For the purpose, of subsection (2), it is immaterial whether the supplier supplied the defective product to--

- (a) the person who suffered the damage;
- (b) the producer of a product in which the defective product is comprised therein; or
- (c) any other person.

(4) Where the supplier fails to comply with a request under subsection (2) within a reasonable time having regard to all the circumstances, the supplier shall be held liable for the loss or damage.

(6) Where two or more persons are liable under this Part for the same damage, their liability shall be joint and several.

(7) This section shall be without prejudice to any liability arising otherwise than under this Part.

(8) The Minister may, by order published in the Gazette, declare that no proceeding shall be brought before the Tribunal or any court in respect of any defect in any goods after the expiry of such period calculated from the date of manufacture of such goods or class or both of such goods as may be specified in the order; and upon the making of such declaration, no proceeding shall be brought in respect of such defect before the Tribunal or any court.

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(c), loss or damage to property shall be deemed to have occurred at the earliest time at which a person with an interest in the property has knowledge of the material facts about the loss or damage.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2)--

- (a) the material facts about any loss of or damage to any property are such facts about the loss or damage as would lead a reasonable person with an interest in the property to consider the loss or damage sufficiently serious to justify his instituting proceedings for damages against a defendant who does not dispute liability and is able to satisfy a judgment against him;
- (b) a person's knowledge includes knowledge which he may reasonably be expected to acquire--
 - (i) from facts observable or ascertainable by him; or
 - (ii) from facts ascertainable by him with the help of appropriate expert advice which it is reasonable for him to seek:

(4) For the purposes of any written law conferring jurisdiction on any court with respect to any matter, liability for damage under this Part shall be treated as liability in tort.

(5) For the purposes of subsection (3), "fault" has the same meaning as in the Civil Law Act 1956.
